

I am OPPOSED to a la carte legislation, it could have a serious impact on small independent networks' viability. Simply put, the networks that cater to specific demographics such as women, minorities, or provide specialized programming will not be able to survive should cable a la carte legislation pass. In such an environment, consumers would have fewer programming choices, reduced programming diversity and likely be forced to pay increased prices.